Okay. Thanks. I looked through some of my older BLT stuff and I don't see much to use for protocols around short cycle action planning--just lots of the rubrics and completed templates from schools who went through our BLT training. So, I'd love it if you could share whatever you have. My calendar is up to date, so let me know if any times next week or the following work. I know next week I have several personal commitments so my calendar is not very open.

Also, if the teacher strike continues (which I am fearful it will) I am keeping my kids home as the classroom coverage is terrible and there are 40 kids to a class. So, I may need to bring them to the Doug Co MLT tomorrow as Chris is traveling and I can't find a sitter as of now. I am crossing my fingers it gets resolved yet tonight as they are still meeting, but I am just not confident it will happen. I will let Zac and Laura know too if I need to bring them OR I can join remotely if you/they prefer.
Thanks for understanding.
Katy

For sure, we should co-plan. I really didn't know how/what was coming out of the planning group. I think we "teach" them problem solving process (as they won't get them from other sessions). It'll be "light", but I think doable. I don't use the slides Jason does, so I use other visuals/notions. A little old school, but I just cringe at some of the graphic/color looks. ☺ That doesn't mean you can't do something from that if you feel you like it. ☺

I'll think about tools. I'll look at our calendars, and I'll suggest some times. (If I forget before tomorrow, let's do it then. ☺)

So, it looks like we are doing the short cycle action planning session together 2 times. Does this sound right to you from the email? I know you have lots of PPTs and PD training materials already for this so I'm wondering how we can plan together and pull the essentials into 1 hour? Do we want to get together in the next week or 2 for a few hours and map it out? Let me know what you are thinking. Thanks!

Hi all,
I wanted to send along some planning guidelines for the upcoming workshop; it is coming up quick. We have 122 people signed up already!
You are included because I have already talked to you OR we are hoping you can join us. Please let me know if you are unavailable. Please work with your instructing partners to create a presentation.

The morning sessions will be 10:15 - 11:15 and 11:30-12:30. These sessions will be taught mostly by our MTSS team (all hands on deck). Our team is diverse and will be able to give great perspective. We will divide up into teams for the morning. We will do our essentials class and data class. Kim and Katy will help dig in with short cycle action planning. Also, I will do an implementation science class.

Guidelines for AM sessions: Not just sit and get. These are only 1 hour sessions so be very purposeful. We will use the existing classes and will discuss at our next meeting how to adjust for 1 hour sessions.

The afternoon sessions will be 1:45pm - 2:45pm and then 3-4pm
1:45pm - 2:45pm will be break outs for the 5 domains:

Session	Instructors .
Behavior(RP/Trauma informed/Beh team etc.)	Keith Sousa/Jen Nerwin
Academic(best practice, RtI, SPED)	Nicole L.T./Erin M./ Annika/ GT rep. (Natasha?)
Mental Health(prevention-intervention) .	Jamie MD/Aaron R./Nicol B.
Health and Wellness (classroom - healthroom)	Laurie L./Celia F./Zac
Family and Community Engagement(teacher -admin)	Becky C./Kim W.?

Guidelines for PM sessions: Define the domain. Define Supports - not a plan, actual interventions designed to meet the need or lagging skills. What data do they have to get this info? Provide examples of how supports should be connected and aligned starting from universal prevention through intensive intervention; layered continuum of supports. Provide resources that are evidenced based. Have participants do some brainstorming for their schools. Explain this exercise is a good way to do a gap analysis and ensure things are aligned. Wow, can we do this in 1 hour?

3:00pm - 4:00pm will be time for teams to work together. We will all be available and walking around to offer support.

You all are amazing!

Zac
